THE MAGIC OF YOUTH TOUR

BY SHELLY YORK

Magic? Really? Yes!

The electric cooperative Youth Tour traces its origins to a national electric cooperative annual meeting in 1957, when then-Sen. Lyndon Baines Johnson said in his address to the crowd, "If one thing comes out of this meeting, it will be sending youngsters to the national capital where they can actually see what the flag stands for and represents."

And that is how Youth Tour was born!

In the following years, some Texas cooperatives sent groups of young people to Washington, D.C., to work during the summer in Johnson's office. In 1958, Iowa's electric cooperatives sponsored the first group of 34 young people on a weeklong tour of our nation's capital. By 1959, the "Youth Tour" had grown to 130 students. In 2025, there were nearly 2,000 student delegates and chaperones that made the annual Youth Tour pilgrimage to our nation's capital.

What's so magical about that, you ask?

- A movement like Youth Tour was hatched from a simple comment. To date, more than 50,000 young people have participated, and we never get tired of hearing how it truly is a trip of a lifetime!
- For the Iowa delegation, these 35-40 students meet in Des Moines for orientation without knowing each other. By the end of the week, we are a family of sorts, and many tears are shed when we must go our separate ways.
- The things we get to do and see in one week are truly remarkable (magical, if you will!). We experience and see the Arlington National Cemetery, all the monuments and memorials, the National Iowa's 2025 Youth Tour participants.

Iowa's Youth Tour participants in 1958.

Mall, the U.S. Capitol, the Marine Corps Sunset Parade and more museums than we can count.

- After a week in D.C., regardless of your political views, you cannot help but come away with a better understanding of your role as an American citizen.
- Learning about the cooperative business model and the seven principles that guide Iowa's electric cooperatives is often an eye-opener for our student delegates. They leave Youth Tour with a much broader view of how co-ops support their community.

Do you know a high school student interested in history, leadership or public service? Youth Tour might be the perfect (or magical!) fit.

Next year's Youth Tour dates are June 14-20, 2026.

Look for more details about the trip from your local electric cooperative toward the end of the year or find more details at www.iowayouthtour.com.

Shelly York is the office manager and Iowa Youth Tour director for the Iowa Association of Electric Cooperatives.

REEVE REA POWER GENERATING PLANT CELEBRATED AS NATIONAL HISTORIC LANDMARK

On July 9, local leaders, community members and electric cooperative representatives gathered near the Hampton Substation to celebrate a proud moment in Iowa history – the official recognition of the Reeve REA Power Generating Plant as a National Historic Landmark. The event was a celebration of local history, community collaboration and the enduring legacy of rural electrification.

FROM YOUR BOARDROOM

During the June meeting, Franklin REC directors approved the following:

- Estate patronage retirements
- Rural Electric Supply Cooperative director

Iowa Secretary of Agriculture Mike Naig attended the ceremony and spoke about the plant's historic role in rural electrification and agricultural progress. Built from 1937–1938, the plant was the first of its kind west of the Mississippi to be financed by the Rural Electrification Administration. It provided electricity to rural homes and farms at a time when much of rural Iowa was still without power.

The Franklin County Historical Society led the effort to secure the plant's national recognition. Members spent years researching the site's significance, documenting its history, and completing the grant applications and paperwork required for National Historic Landmark status.

Their commitment to preserving this piece of cooperative history made the designation possible.

Now operating as a museum, the plant features one original diesel engine, control panels and equipment. It offers a rare glimpse into the early days of rural power generation and the positive impact it had on rural Iowa. The Reeve Plant is now the 29th site in Iowa to receive National Historic Landmark status, joining notable locations such as the Surf Ballroom, Iowa City's Old Capitol and the Herbert Hoover Birthplace.

To schedule a visit to the Reeve REA Power Generating Plant Museum, call the Franklin County Historical Society at 641-456-5777.

Lilly Morey

"This trip was some of the most fun I've ever had. I made so many new friends and learned a lot about co-ops. I think everyone should apply for the trip because it will really open your eyes to the impact you and the co-op as a team make on the world around you."

Joseph Thielen
Raccoon Valley Electric Cooperative

Iowa's locally owned electric cooperatives have been sending high school students to Washington, D.C., every June since 1958! This year, 35 high school students and six chaperones representing Iowa's electric cooperatives journeyed to the nation's capital for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association's 2025 Youth Tour.

On the weeklong tour, students learned about electric cooperatives, American history and U.S. government and walked away with a greater understanding of their role as an American citizen. They participated in National Youth Day, visited with their elected legislators and explored the sights around the nation's capital.

Earlier in the year, students applied for the trip through their local electric cooperatives. The Iowa students joined students from co-ops around the country for the national Youth Tour.

FRANKLIN REC EARNS A 2025 CUSTOMER SATISFACTION AWARD

Franklin REC is honored to have earned a 2025 Customer Satisfaction Award* from the American Customer Satisfaction Index (ACSI®) based on our member survey results.

Members were asked to rate their overall satisfaction with us, how well we lived up to their expectations and how well we measured up to their ideal co-op experience. While these were not the only questions in the survey, we included these specifically because they are the core components of the proprietary ACSI methodology.

Franklin REC's ACSI score substantially outperforms the industry average score earned by publicly measured utilities reported in the 2025 ACSI Energy Utility Study. This award is a testament to Franklin REC's ongoing efforts to provide the best possible member experience.

The 2025 Customer Satisfaction Award affirms that Franklin REC's hard work has been noticed by its members. Franklin REC is grateful for its members and will continue to strive for excellence through constant dedication to improvement.

Award criteria are determined by the ACSI and are based on customers rating their satisfaction in a survey independent of the syndicated ACSI Energy Utility Study. LOCAL TEEN ATTENDS NATIONAL TOUR PROGRAM

Nicholas Quasdorf of Hampton recently participated in the national rural electric cooperative Youth Tour of Washington, D.C., sponsored by Franklin REC. He traveled to Washington, D.C., in mid-June with 34 other student leaders from Iowa.

Every summer, this weeklong leadership development program provides high school students opportunities to learn about government, the electric cooperative business model and today's pressing issues in the energy industry. Students meet their elected officials, tour historic sites and run their very own snack cooperative.

The annual Youth Tour has been a joint effort of locally owned electric cooperatives, including Franklin REC, statewide trade associations and the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA) for over 65 years.

Nicholas said he had the experience of a lifetime.

“ The Youth Tour was an experience I will not forget. From the monuments and museums, I came to a better understanding of the history that built our nation. Meeting with people who are involved in representing us was impactful, and I appreciated them taking the time to teach us what happens to make our government work. I can't thank Franklin REC enough for sponsoring this experience. ”

In addition to taking in the sights of the nation's capital, all the state groups convened for the rural electric Youth Day, sponsored by NRECA, to learn from public figures and other inspirational speakers. This year's Youth Day agenda included Mike Schlappi, a four-time Paralympic Medalist and two-time world Wheelchair Basketball champion. Mike shares his inspiring message for every American, young or old: "Just because you can't stand up, doesn't mean you can't stand out."

Since 1958, Iowa's electric cooperatives have sponsored high school students on Youth Tour for visits to their U.S. congressional delegations, energy and grassroots government education sessions, and sightseeing in Washington, D.C.

WHY ARE THERE TWO TRUCKS AT A FRANKLIN REC WORK SITE?

Have you ever driven past a Franklin REC crew and wondered why two utility trucks are on-site? Typically, Franklin REC has a bucket truck and a digger truck at a job site. Each has a specific role that helps our lineworkers safely and efficiently get the job done. Both trucks are essential tools in building and maintaining the electric system that delivers power to your home or business.

Bucket truck: Getting the job done at new heights

Our bucket trucks are equipped with hydraulic booms and a variety of bucket sizes, from single-person to two-man configurations, allowing linemen to safely access the tops of utility poles with their tools and equipment in tow. Many of these trucks also feature a mechanical arm known as a “jib,” complete with a winch, which enables linemen to lift and install heavy equipment – such as transformers – directly from the bucket.

This modern equipment has replaced the need to manually climb poles and haul materials by hand, making the job not only more efficient but also significantly safer and easier physically.

A bucket truck helps crews:

- Build and string new power lines
- Replace overhead equipment such as transformers or insulators
- Perform routine maintenance
- Restore power after outages
- Trim vegetation near power lines

Digger truck: The power behind the pole

The primary role of the digger truck is to drill precise holes for utility poles using a 5-foot-long, 18-inch-wide auger. But digging is just the beginning. This versatile truck is also equipped with a hydraulic grapple that lifts and sets the pole directly into place. When it's time for replacement, the digger truck makes the process just as efficient by removing the old pole and loading it onto a trailer for transport.

The digger truck plays a key role in:

- New construction
- Pole replacements
- Storm damage repairs

Tools that keep our members powered

Having a fleet of specialized equipment like bucket and digger trucks means our crews can work safer, faster and more effectively. It also means fewer physical strains, helping our employees stay healthy and on the job for the long haul.

Now, the next time you see our crews in the field, you'll know exactly why both trucks are there. And if you're ever curious, feel free to stop (safely!) and ask. Our team is always happy to share more about the tools and teamwork it takes to keep the power flowing.

CELEBRATING IOWA'S CENTURY, HERITAGE FARMS

BY DARCY DOUGHERTY MAULSBY

Sometimes people ask me where I developed my love of Iowa history. I suspect part of it came from growing up on my family's Century Farm in Calhoun County.

My great-grandfather Charles Dougherty paid $93.75 an acre in 1909 for this 160-acre farm between Lake City and Yetter. I always thought it was pretty neat that the farmhouse we lived in pre-dated the Dougherty family, as did the barn. Both had been owned by an Irish Catholic family named Sheehy who lived there sometime between the 1890s and 1903.

I'm grateful that this 160-acre farm, along with two other farms in Elm Grove Township, have stayed in my family for 100-plus years. All have received the Century Farm award. This inspiring program began in 1976 as part of America's bicentennial celebration. Since the program started nearly 50 years ago, more than 20,000 Iowa farms have been recognized.

The keepers of history

Through the years, my work as an ag journalist has taken me across Iowa to hundreds of Century Farms and Heritage Farms (which have been owned by the same family for 150 years or more). One thing is clear – the stories that survive depend on the keeper of the history. For the Wulkow family, that keeper of the history was Ernest Wulkow (1885-1979). He was born on his family's Sac County farm southwest of Lytton.

"In 1960, Ernest handwrote many pages of memories in a notebook," said Barbara (Wulkow) Gregory, his granddaughter, who still lives on the farm. She and I had a great visit this spring when I stopped by to interview her.

These stories are often sobering. Just five years prior to Ernest's birth, his father Carl Wulkow purchased 100 acres of Coon Valley Township land in 1880. To say times were tough is an understatement.

"When I was seven years old, I had to start work in the field," wrote Ernest, who received a fourth-grade education before he had to start working full-time. "My first job was to drag with two horses and a two-section drag after seeding oats, walking all day. Then when I came in at night, I had to chore till dark, then eat supper, then to bed."

Sometimes Ernest's father sent him out to cut wild hay. "We had lots of ponds in them good old days, and the grass was 5 feet long around the pond. I had to keep on cutting till I got up to the water. Then my sickle would ball up. I just had a 'mell of a hess' to get out of it."

Sacrifices transcend generations

It's almost hard to imagine, isn't it? For many Century Farm and Heritage Farm families, the sacrifices and hard work of earlier generations aren't taken for granted. Just ask Brett Ludwig, 36, whose ancestor Martin Ludwig, purchased 80 acres of Carroll County land from the Iowa Railroad Land Company in 1874.

"You wonder how many people along the way helped make this farm what it is," said Brett, who raises crops and hogs on his family's Kniest Township farm. "It's cool to think about all the lives this farm has touched."

Katherine Dornath Cook, whose family owns a Century Farm in Norway Township in Humboldt County, understands this sentiment.

"My kids think this farm is special enough to have talked me into getting a family tattoo," she said. "We each have a tattoo of the farm's coordinates as a reminder that no matter where we are in the world, we will always know where home is."

Truly, there's no place like home, especially when that home is a Century Farm.

Do you have a Century Farm or Heritage Farm? If so, I'd love to hear about it. Contact me at yettergirl@yahoo.com.
